Dear Dr. Saiful:

Greetings from Pertanika. An article with Manuscript ID JSSH-5417-2019.R1, titled "The Fall of Egyptian President Morsi and The Media Representation: A Critical Discourse Analysis of Kompas Daily Newspaper" has been submitted to Pertanika for intended publication in the Journal of Social Sciences and Humanities (JSSH).

I invite you to review this manuscript. The abstract appears at the end of this letter. I would be most grateful if you could find the time to read the article. Please let me know, preferably within 3 days, if you accept my invitation to review. If you are unable to review at this time, I would appreciate you recommending another expert reviewer(s) via email to the Chief Executive Editor at executive\_editor.pertanika@upm.edu.my.

Should you agree to review the article, I would be glad if you could complete and return your review within 3 weeks from the date you click the "Agreed" link below.

Please note your name will be listed and publish in our journal. However, owing to budget constraint, Pertanika is discontinuing the token monitoring reward with immediate effect. We realise that our expert reviewers greatly contribute to the high standards of the Journal, and I thank you for your present and/or future participation.

Please click the appropriate link at the bottom of the page to automatically register your reply with our online manuscript submission and review system.

Once you accept my invitation to review this manuscript, you will be notified via e-mail about how to access ScholarOne Manuscripts, our online manuscript submission and review system. You will then have access to the manuscript and Reviewer guidelines in your Reviewer Center.

Sincerely,

Chief Executive Editor

MANUSCRIPT DETAILS

TITLE: The Fall of Egyptian President Morsi and The Media Representation: A Critical Discourse Analysis of Kompas Daily Newspaper

ABSTRACT: The fall of President Morsi on 3 July 2013 and the political conflict in Egypt that followed, became a hot topic that attracted international media attention, including in Indonesia. This study aims to find out how the discourse of political conflict is packaged in the daily newspaper Kompas, one of the most well-known media outlets in Indonesia, using Norman Fairclough's critical discourse analysis. Six editions were investigated as the data sources and analyzed using the content analysis technique. This research proves that Kompas, in reporting the political conflicts of Egypt after the coup, tended to be balanced and straightforward. This was evidenced by particular word choice and quotations from neutral speakers with no inclination towards the military and Morsi supporters. In addition, Kompas has placed the theme of reporting on political conflicts in post-coup Egypt as a cause of polemic over national fiscal disturbances and the adverse effects of Egypt's regional and international economic growth

Dear Dr. Akmal:

Greetings from Pertanika. An article with Manuscript ID JSSH-8262-2021, titled "The Linguocultural Aspect of Universal (Unique) Precedent Names in the Turkic People (A Case Study of the Concept of "Mother")" has been submitted to Pertanika for intended publication in the Journal of Social Sciences and Humanities (JSSH).

The Editorial Board have found that you are an excellent person with the experience and knowledge to review this manuscript. This is an invitation to request your willingness to provide such a review. We welcome your honest critique as we want the manuscript to be conceptually strong and clear in narrative before it is published by our journal. The abstract appears at the end of this letter. I would be most grateful if you could find the time to read the article. Please let me know, preferably within 5 days, if you accept my invitation to review. If you are unable to review at this time, I would appreciate you recommending another expert reviewer(s) via email to the Chief Executive Editor at executive\_editor.pertanika@upm.edu.my.

Should you agree to review the article, I would be glad if you could complete and return your review within 2 weeks from the date you click the "Agreed" link below.

Please note your name will be listed and publish in our journal. However, owing to budget constraint, Pertanika is discontinuing the token monitoring reward with immediate effect. We realise that our expert reviewers greatly contribute to the high standards of the Journal, and I thank you for your present and/or future participation.

Please click the appropriate link at the bottom of the page to automatically register your reply with our online manuscript submission and review system.

Once you accept my invitation to review this manuscript, you will be notified via e-mail about how to access ScholarOne Manuscripts, our online manuscript submission and review system. You will then have access to the manuscript and Reviewer guidelines in your Reviewer Center.

TITLE: The Linguocultural Aspect of Universal (Unique) Precedent Names in the Turkic People (A Case Study of the Concept of "Mother")

ABSTRACT: This study is the first to consider the universal precedent names common to the Turkic peoples. This research seeks to identify universal precedent names reflecting the concept "Mother" in Turkic languages, describe the functioning features that determine their precedent, and analyze the situations that led to the formation of the identified precedent names. Content analysis was performed to obtain the results of this study. Data on universal precedent names in Turkic peoples were collected and systematized. Theories about precedent phenomena are studied and analyzed more deeply about precedent names. This research analyzed the work of scientists on the theory of precedents. The results obtained are a prerequisite for further study of not only common precedent names for all Turkic peoples, but also of precedent phenomena in every Turkic language.

Dear Dr. Akmal:

Greetings from Pertanika. An article with Manuscript ID JSSH-8402-2021, titled "Positive Attitudes in French Travel Blog Narratives: A Case of Geotourism in Mount Batur, Bali, Indonesia" has been submitted to Pertanika for intended publication in the Journal of Social Sciences and Humanities (JSSH).

The Editorial Board have found that you are an excellent person with the experience and knowledge to review this manuscript. This is an invitation to request your willingness to provide such a review. We welcome your honest critique as we want the manuscript to be conceptually strong and clear in narrative before it is published by our journal. The abstract appears at the end of this letter. I would be most grateful if you could find the time to read the article. Please let me know, preferably within 5 days, if you accept my invitation to review. If you are unable to review at this time, I would appreciate you recommending another expert reviewer(s) via email to the Chief Executive Editor at executive\_editor.pertanika@upm.edu.my.

Should you agree to review the article, I would be glad if you could complete and return your review within 2 weeks from the date you click the "Agreed" link below.

Please note your name will be listed and publish in our journal. However, owing to budget constraint, Pertanika is discontinuing the token monitoring reward with immediate effect. We realise that our expert reviewers greatly contribute to the high standards of the Journal, and I thank you for your present and/or future participation.

Please click the appropriate link at the bottom of the page to automatically register your reply with our online manuscript submission and review system.

Once you accept my invitation to review this manuscript, you will be notified via e-mail about how to access ScholarOne Manuscripts, our online manuscript submission and review system. You will then have access to the manuscript and Reviewer guidelines in your Reviewer Center.

Sincerely,

Chief Executive Editor

TITLE: Positive Attitudes in French Travel Blog Narratives: A Case of Geotourism in Mount Batur, Bali, Indonesia

ABSTRACT: Geotourism is a type of tourism that is focused on the Earth and its environment. In this study, the relation between tourism and linguistics were revealed. This study was aimed at investigating how geotourism in Mount Batur, Bali, Indonesia was evaluated by the travelers as put forward in the French travel blog narratives to discover the authors' positive attitudes. The study is based on the theory of Language of Evaluation or Appraisal based on Systemic Functional Linguistics (SFL) approach. The narratives used by the travelers in five travel blogs were perceived to describe the positive attitudes during the activities on the volcano. Attitude is a domain of appraisal and which is divided into three subsystems i.e., affect, judgment, and appreciation. The positive attitude is the only polarity discussed in this research. The result shows that positive attitudes were expressed as those three subsystems of appraisal and related to the positive impressions of the destination, the climbing processes, the supporting systems of the tourist's attraction, the natural beauty of the destination, and the uniqueness of culture in the destination. Those findings can be considered as a promotion to invite many other travelers to visit Mount Batur, Bali and to enhance the tourism industry in that area.

MANUSCRIPT DETAILS

TITLE: THE CULTURAL EXPRESSION IN THE FOLK SONGS OF ETHNIC OSING BANYUWANGI, INDONESIA

ABSTRACT: Folk songs are a form of expression vehicle to communicate cultural messages, including in the ethnic Osing region. Therefore, this study aimed to describe and explain the cultural messages present in the folk songs of the ethnic Osing Banyuwangi. This qualitative study used a hermeneutic approach to interpret and explain the meaning of the messages that reflect personal, social, and environmental attitudes. The data were obtained through document studies, interviews with two songwriters, as well as observations and were analyzed qualitatively by interpreting the meaning through various stages. These were (1) carefully reading song lyrics to understand the message content, (2) drawing, adjusting, and reflecting on the results based on the concrete behavior of the ethnic Osing people, and (3) interpreting the reflection results under its existence. The findings showed that the ethnic Osing indigenes have a simple attitude to life and exhibit qualities of discipline, obedience, hard work, and care. These attitudes underlie behaviors of tolerance, cooperation, harmony, and respect in society and relationships with nature, and are expressed in Banyuwangi folk songs. This finding is a cultural document with significant meaning for individuals interested in understanding the Osing ethnic culture and is also useful for the development of character education.
